Cosmetic surgery has never been as popular and as acceptable as it is today, and doctors from every medical speciality around seem to be jumping on the bandwagon to perform these "cosmetic miracles." However, there are only a few physicians who truly have the experience and talent to perform cosmetic procedures and even less who are known as "Doctors of Distinction."

Dr. David Whiteman founded his practice in 1993. He is a board-certified plastic surgeon in both the United States and Canada. Dr. Whiteman is a member of the American Society of Plastic Surgery and is the chief of plastic surgery at the Gwinnett Hospital System.

Dr. Whiteman has been devoted to helping breast cancer patients since his fellowship training at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. He is currently the spokesperson for VolleyFest, a breast cancer nonprofit 501(C)(3). He also founded and works with two other breast cancer groups.

Dr. Whiteman's practice is focused on educating the patient. He believes that an informed patient goes into surgery with more confidence, the right motivation and realistic expectations. His practice philosophy is simply stated and from the heart…

"We are dedicated to our patients' well-being," Dr. Whiteman says. "We take a proactive approach by listening to our patients' concerns, evaluating their needs, and helping them achieve their goals. We will provide every patient with the highest level of care and the knowledge to make an informed decision.

Most of our patients find us through word of mouth. "This is the best compliment anyone could ever receive and we are grateful every time we earn a referral."

Dr. Whiteman's practice is a full-service plastic surgery practice and offers everything from skincare products and facial fillers to facelifts and liposuction.
